Catherine Roffe moved here in 2008 after 20 years in publishing and hospitality as a market and competition analyst in the leisure industry. She served 5 years as a Parent Governor in London, leading the overhaul of school meals and volunteering in another local school with a reading charity. Since arriving in the Cotswolds, she has been a parish clerk and now volunteers with a local adult literacy group. Following several years in the PTA she became a Parent Governor in 2011 and when her daughter had left, switched to Co-Opted Governor in 2014. Specific areas of responsibility are E-Safety, Anti-Bullying and School Council. She also chairs the Teaching & Learning Committee and is very keen that we continue to do our best for children of all abilities.
