

Former Cotswold School pupil's creative sector success

George Tonks

Former Cotswold School student, George Tonks, displayed a natural flair for art at school and has since gone on to achieve great success in the creative sector! George, who left school in 2012, gained a BA Hons Degree in Illustration from the Arts University Bournemouth. Whilst there, he won many awards and accolades, including Adobe's Top Talent in 2019 for his animal illustrations. George's passion is using his artwork to help spread awareness and education surrounding the natural world and conservation.

Currently employed as Head of Design at Rapanui Clothing, based on the Isle of Wight, he also designs for their sister company Teemill.

It has been wonderful to hear about George's career progression and all of his amazing achievements!

Check out his Instagram page, which currently has an audience of over 25,500 followers.

