

John has a child at the Cotswold School. A master mariner, John has enjoyed a full career at sea and ashore in the international shipping and the offshore oil industries. Given command at an early age, he went on to senior management and board director roles for the operation and ownership of large tankers and other ships. He is now the Senior Nautical Advisor to a specialist consultancy in providing expert opinion, guidance and investigation on Marine Claims and Asset Protection matters (including anti-fraud and anti-piracy) for shipping and commodity trading. When not at work, John assists with coaching his son's team at Chipping Norton RFC and occasionally referees matches for the OSRFR."
